Certification System of Leisure Farm Service

Certification of leisure farm service adopts public system, fair standards, and impartial procedure. Through certification of service, farms can be assisted to explore and improve service deficiency, elevate service quality, and establish brand image of leisure farm.

PUBLIC

Taiwan Leisure Farm Service Certification System is conducted by "Certification Council" which consists of four parties of government, scholars, experts, and non-profit organizations. Meanwhile, a website of leisure farm service certification has been established to publish all certification documents of certification standards, certification procedure, certification administration, and certification mark...etc. for consumer to view.

FAIR

Taiwan Leisure Farm Service Certification Standards were formulated via cooperation between Taiwan Leisure Farms Development Association and Council of Agriculture, Executive Yuan through entrusting scholars and experts to proceed with 30 leisure farms of different features and scales and had been reviewed for correction by Certification Council according to demands of industrial development.

IMPARTIAL

Certification Council is in charge of certification and examination. Certification includes selection of feature and diagnosis of service. Selection of features is handled by a "Selection Team" of experts, and diagnosis of service is handled by "Diagnosis Team" of mysterious guests. The selection and diagnosis teams adopt on-site certification with certification report to be submitted to Certification Council for examination.

Mascot of tourism of Taiwan leisure farming

Egret White (Handsome White)

We always see tracks of egret in the farm, in the woods, and by the pond. The reason for egret to stay on buffalo's back is simple:

"Sufficient foods and wonderful homeland"

Every farmer knows any villages of good ecology shall have egrets. Any croplands with egrets must be fertile. Farmers and egrets are relying on villages with mutualism. The mutually-beneficial relationship of creatures and environment is just the same as the core value of leisure farming. Thus we invited Egret White to speak for leisure farming.

Egret White would like more people to know and experience villages. As hospitable as it, Egret White knows everything about farming, forestry, fishery, and herding. Welcome to village and Egret White shall lead us to experience abundant ecological resources of farming and feel the substantial warmth of felicity from farmer. Share the exclusive green life in village.

The Bunun tribal settlement is the mountain paradise for experiencing aboriginal culture. With clean air and clear water, fruit and veggies are locally grown without chemical. Thus lead to quality juice, jam, vinegar, fruit dew and more. Visitors can enjoy the theatrical performance of classic eight-part chorus and boriginal art creations. What the farm offers is a trip to authentic tribal and cultural experience.
